An Excitement in Executive Circles.

The little remaining life in executive circles here is about to fly out. The President contemplates a trip which will last a fortnight. Only two members of the Cabinet are in town.

Receipts vs. Duties.

Morrill has a card in the morning papers, replying to the star thrown out in Butler's letter, that Morrill was one of Sumner's counsel, in which the statement is made that Butler, previous to the trial of Surrat, made a direct proposition to engage in the defence.

Division of Texas.

The proposition which originated here for a division of Texas into three States has been taken up by the Ultimate, and is being earnestly pressed with a prospect of the measure being carried through at an early day. The Republicans there believe that the present State can be so fivided as to give at least two, which will be largely Union.

Stand on Action.

The order for cleaning out all articles on exhibition in the Capitol building, has been rescinded. It will retrieve a large number of artists of a convenient place to display their productions. Among other things a bust of Sumner, a medallion of Butler, and a full length statue of Butler, will be deprived of the honor of a public exposure.

New Southern Members Taken to Task.

Importance of a Democratic Victory.

New York, August 5.—The following is Horatio Seymour's acceptance of the Democratic nomination for the Presidency:

UTICA, August 5, 1868.

GENTLEMEN:—When in the city of New York on the 4th inst., in the presence of a vast multitude, on behalf of the National Democratic Convention, you announced to me the unanimous nomination as their candidate for the office of President of the United States, I stated that I had no words adequate to express my gratitude for the good will and kindness which had been shown to me. The nomination was unsought and unexpected. It was my ambition to take an active part, from which I am now excused, in the great struggle going on for the restoration of good government, of peace and prosperity to the country, and I have been caught up by the most whelming tide which is bearing on to a great political change, and I feel myself unable to resist its pressure.

You have also given me a copy of the resolutions put forth by the Convention, showing its position upon all the great questions which now agitate the country, and I am requested by you to express my views in accordance with their scope and import, as one of the candidates I am a party to their terms. There are no questions of doubt as to the meaning of the resolutions which are now before the country, and I do not care to carry them out in the terms, whether I like the grounds, in positions of private life.

I have stated I would not express these views of acceptance in a letter, and for the reasons there given. I do so upon reflection in charge of country the interest of my opinions of the resolutions of the Convention, which will be found in the platform of principles which will be found in the platform of principles which will be found in the platform of principles

THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 6, 1868.

The Commercial is the largest daily paper in the State, and after only one fourth more reading than any other paper in Pittsburgh. It is the only Pittsburgh paper that uses the telegraph altogether, gives full market reports, and all the news of the day.

Be proof of the ultimate placed on the market reports of the Commercial, we will state that they are constantly copied by the New York Herald, Shipping List, Iron Age, and other papers of the Eastern cities and other cities, and that leading English commercial papers and circulars regularly copy from this office. There is reason for this confidence, lately on from Factory, Oil Well, or leading manufactory of any kind that is not a subscriber to the Commercial, promptly. Because its reports are the only full and reliable ones of the Pittsburgh markets.

While the Pittsburgh Post is so grateful for our greenback editions limit to give it a contribution, if the Post, the New York Herald takes the opposite ground, that "The Democratic party is pledged by the platform to appreciate the greenback as it is," and on these for the payment of "that part of the public debt which is not by express provision of the law due in gold." Which is the true Democratic doctrine—one or "something not entirely?"

Since Wade Hampton, the fire-eating secessionist, has become chief orthodox dunce in the Democratic party and the acknowledged expounder of its principles, it is interesting to know in his personal views politely expressed. He does now declare his love to the Union, recognize the following from his late Charleston speech:

> "Whatever we may say in the heat of political discussion, whatever we may write in the excitement of political contest, we all feel that the Union is dissolved, that the sword has been drawn in the Delaware, that prompt decree that he even called his battle with a foreign enemy—there afford all that is necessary by way of clearing points and some stones to enable one to obtain a complete survey and map of the man. Like Brownlow, he has stored clear of Government securities—he as hated the name in behalf of which they were issued that he would not touch one of them. He has been as with regard to city, town and county indebtedness to assist in obtaining soldiers, for "does not care and never the cent one." What wonder to know more of Horatio Seymour?

The Post then in for "paring off" the debt by issuing greenbacks "so fast as paper will not printing press" can print them. But in answers only a part of our views. We want to know how the greenbacks are to be paid off, still what part of the bonds are to be paid with and a total of greenbacks redeemed? The evasion by the Post to avoid this branch of the issue opposite the Money of the people of duty it can called.

But so as for a moment examine the idea of paying off "sixteen hundred millions of the five twenty bonds" in greenbacks "as fast as paper will not printing press" can manufacture the greenbacks—a form of repudiation extremely suggestive of the Wallenstein and ultimate repudiation. Let us take the first issue of Five twenties which are promptly paid in Europe. Mr. Peabody, as before, gets the amount back in the United States at about ten millions. Having got the greenbacks in hand and all things ready to "peg," the greenback trader is ready to buy the European bond holders. The bonds are being due yet, is it at all likely the offer would be accepted? Is it probable that an interest bearing bond would be given up for a non-interest bearing greenback? But if the holders should agree to make the exchange, what part of the debt would be paid by the operation? Are not greenbacks evidences of debt, unconvertible payable in gold? Would not, therefore, the bonds, which you say are not payable in gold, have been converted into that which for a certainty is, and the debt diminished not one dollar?

But further confusion and distrust having been created among the holders of bonds and greenbacks abroad, the direct tendency, if not the inevitable effect would be their shipment back for sale at what they would fetch, whereby the country would be drained of gold and a new commercial crisis created. Greenbacks would decline—nobody knows to what figure, in fleecing a loss on every valuable interest in the land of untold millions.

This would be the inevitable result of the Post's plan, if it could be made to work. But it could not be made to work. There is no power to compel bondholding, at home or abroad, to give them up for greenbacks; but what would be done would be the creation of distrust of our faith in such an extent as would defeat any future attempts to fund the debt and reduce the rate of interest, which is the true course to pursue, the bonds being not now due, or convertible. So we see that the Post's plan would not pay a cent of the indebtedness, but only add to the paper redeemable in coin.

The editor of the Post put on his thinking cap, get rid of his prejudices and reason on the question like a man of sense.

GATHERING FOR THE CONFLICT

The people are preparing for the grand conflict. The arguments of the orators are overwhelmingly convincing, and are equally concentrating the friends of the Union under the banner of Grant and Colfax. In Allegheny county the work has commenced in earnest, and clubs are being organized in every district. A feeling of responsibility pervades the minds of Republicans, and is moving them to action. They are full of hope and inspired by confidence in the triumph of the principles for which they have contended alike with the ballot and the bullet. In a fortnight the county will be thoroughly organized, and the work of consulting the ranks will be pressed with vigor thereafter until the day of battle. This gathering of the people is one of the most encouraging indications of the campaign. It is a certain forerunner of success. The title is telling in and will increase in volume as it rolls on. Grant is the voluntary choice of the people. They nominated him long before the Chicago Convention was held, and will unanimously ratify that nomination. The prospects were never brighter in the Banner County," and we can assure our friends in other parts of the State that we will do our whole duty when the day of action comes.

THE GENTLE LAMBS!

The Pittsburgh Post don't find room for half the speeches that are made for Seymour and Blair. Even Beardsley's speech it has not printed, while the speeches of Rousseau, Sanders, Yeaton & Co. are strongly ignored. We will do our part to supply the omission by giving occasionally choice extracts like the following from the speech of Mr. Winchester, a prominent Democrat, at a Seymour and Blair meeting in New Orleans. Talking of struggle, he said:

> "We cannot stop in the case of success now! We cannot stop in the case of success now! We cannot stop in the case of success now!

COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE!

"CONSIDERABLE MERIT."

(From G. O. Tiwing, M. D. New Philadelphia, O.)

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, Dec. 21, 1864.

MR. CLARK: I am acquainted with several persons who have used Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, and from their testimony I am convinced that the medicine possesses considerable merit. I should be glad to recommend it to my patients who may need such a medicine, and also to use it, when occasion may require.

I own practice; but our code of ethics, to which I freely subscribed, disallows me to use a medicine the ingredients of which I am unacquainted with. Most manufacturers of proprietary medicines do not hesitate to furnish their formulas to physicians, and if you are one of those, please send me your formula, and it is quite likely that it will lead to the sale of a few bottles, to say the least. I would suggest that it would be advisable to make depositories of the medicine in more places than you have in this State. There are many large, flourishing towns, where your medicine should yet be found, and where, I have no doubt, from what I know of the medicine, they would have a large sale. If you do not wish to have your complete formula known, please state the ingredients composing it.

BALDWINSVILLE, May 12, 1868.

GENTS: Allow me to say that, although, as a general thing, I have a pretty poor opinion of patent medicines, still I was induced to purchase one of "Coe's Dyspepsia Remedy" as a valuable thing. From boyhood I have been troubled with the most terrible dyspepsia, and, although I have tried in the list of suffering humanity, and, although I have tried almost every known specific for this cause, none has ever given me half the relief as Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. I have not yet used quite a bottle, and since I have commenced its use I have not had even a symptom of the headache. This is two months since. Previous to that I scarcely had it at least once a week, sometimes twice.

In reply to your inquiry as to results in using the bottle of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure we purchased from you, we take the first opportunity to state that, for a young man, I am an old physician, and have had almost everything in the line of prescriptions and formulas, from physicians and books, and never found anything like equal to Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. The first dose I took relieved me, and I felt like a new man; called, and went about my business in a happier mood than I had for years before. After finishing one bottle, I started to the happy conclusion that I was cured, and had it not been for my wife's persuasion in taking, I doubt whether the disease would ever have returned. I took therefore and have taken since, two bottles, and am now entirely free from the ravages and horrors of this terrible disease.

Yours, truly,

GENTS—I inclose your circular. I know of two parties—wives of prominent citizens in this place—who have been greatly benefitted, if not cured, by the use of your Dyspepsia Cure, but they will not consent to the public use of their names. And that is the matter rests, with a steadily increasing sale.

Yours, respectfully, H. M. T. SMITH.

DURHAM, Cuyahoga Co., Ohio.

In reply to your inquiry as to results in using the bottle of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure we purchased from you, we take the first opportunity to state that, for a young man, I am an old physician, and have had almost everything in the line of prescriptions and formulas, from physicians and books, and never found anything like equal to Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. The first dose I took relieved me, and I felt like a new man; called, and went about my business in a happier mood than I had for years before. After finishing one bottle, I started to the happy conclusion that I was cured, and had it not been for my wife's persuasion in taking, I doubt whether the disease would ever have returned. I took therefore and have taken since, two bottles, and am now entirely free from the ravages and horrors of this terrible disease.

Yours, truly,

J. W. NIEL, M. D.

"VERY MODEST."

(From H. M. T. Smith, Dunkirk, N. Y.)

DUNKIRK, N. Y., May 1, 1868.

GENTS—I inclose your circular. I know of two parties—wives of prominent citizens in this place—who have been greatly benefitted, if not cured, by the use of your Dyspepsia Cure, but they will not consent to the public use of their names. And that is the matter rests, with a steadily increasing sale.

Yours, respectfully, H. M. T. SMITH.

"REPUTATION GAINING."

(From Rev. Allen Crowell, Brookville, Pa.)

LUTHERSBURG, Pa., May 2, 1867.

MR. JOSEPH FLEMING:

SIR—"Coe's Dyspepsia Cure" is gaining a reputation amongst our people. The medicine already used is having the desired effect. A friend wishes me to get a bottle for him, for which I send you $1. Send to me as others, as soon as possible.

Yours, &c., Rev. D. ALLEN CROWELL,

Brookville, Jefferson Co., Pa.

THE DELAYED CATTLE.

The Sanitary Self-Confidence—How the Animals are Affected—Further Shipment of Diseased Cattle Stopped over the Pennsylvania Railroad—Some Two Thousand other Cattle at the Central Yards—The Statute and the Ordinance Regulating Diseased Stock—The Duty of the Mayor and the Police.

The resolution was yesterday in regard to the shipment of diseased cattle from the West under more excitement in the community, and until the guilty authorities the sale and consumption of beef will be greatly curtailed. The facts stated in the resolution, and which were published in the PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, in regard to the cattle shipped here, are undoubtedly correct, and were confirmed yesterday in the strongest manner by the testimony of many persons. Some highly respectable and intelligent gentlemen have been examined, and they testify that the "beauty of these diseased animals have been slaughtered and retailed to our people, and that "quantities of this meat are now being sold in the markets of this city. Some of the cattle were shipped here with certificates of health, and the "beauty" of these diseased animals was the result of the "sanitary self-confidence" of the Western people
